HONOR ROLL OF DIXON SCHOOLS LISTS 144 NAMES

That Number of Pupils
Neither Absent or Tardy Last Year

In the Dixon elementary schools
for the year 1924-25 there were 144
students who will receive a certificate of award signed by Superintendent L.
B. Potter for having perfect records of attendance. Superintendent Potter
today said:

"One of the first requisites for good scholarship is good attendance. A child who is in school only part time never does as good work as the child with the same ability who has a perfect record in punctuality and attendance. Consequently the schools encourage and insist upon regular attendance. If a child in the grades has been able to attend regularly without being absent a half day and has been on time for both morning and afternoon sessions during the entire year he is given a certificate of award signed by the superintendent of schools and his teacher."

Following is a list of school students, with their grade and teacher

DIXON KNIGHTS TEMPLAR TO GO TO BIG CONCLAVE

Plans Are Being Made
for Attending Annual Meeting

The Dixon Commandery, Knights
Templar are making elaborate plans for their trip to the annual Conclave of Knight Templar of Illinois which is to be held in Chicago September 28, 29 and 30. The Chicago Commandery who will be hosts to all of the "down state" Commanderies have planned the largest and grandest conclave ever held in this state.

A few of the larger events will be a monster Templar Ball to be held in the largest available hall in Chicago on Monday evening, Sept. 28th, to open up the festivities; a grand parade in which all Commanderies in their fullest possible strength will participate, on Tuesday morning, Sept. 29th; a brigade review in the Grant Park Stadium with reserved seats for 40,000 during the afternoon of Tuesday, Sept. 29th, to be followed in the evening by a gorgeous, glittering night pageant winding its way throughout the loop from dusk, in which will be included beautiful historic floats and accompanied by the Shrine organizations of Chicago and down state. This will terminate in the Stadium where it will be reviewed by the friends of those participating winding up the day with a $10,000 display of fireworks excelling in grandeur and beauty any previous exhibition of the kind in Chicago. The Conclave will close with the competition drills of the crack Commanderies of the state on Wednesday, Sept. 30th.

The members of the Dixon Commandery are planning on attending with their full membership. The drum and bugle corps are rehearsing regularly and will have at least twenty five men in their band. Arrangements are being made at one of the large Michigan Ave. hotels for headquarters rooms for both the Commandery and the Ladies Auxiliary. Arrangements are also being made with one of the downtown hotels for rooms sufficient to care for the entire Dixon contingent. Bus rates have been secured so that, if desired, a number of the Dixon Sir Knights and their ladies can travel to Chicago together in a large comfortable bus.

Smothered Life Out
Aurora, Ill., Aug. 25—(AP)—George J. Pamonska, 31, today fled into an ante room and shut
the door behind him to escape flames which followed an explosion of naphtha in a dying and cleaning establishment where he was employed. Fumes which got under the door smothered him to death. There was no window in the room into which he ran, and it only had one door.

BENEVOLENCES TO BENEFIT IN WILL OF LATE EDITOR

Terms of Victor F. Lawson's Will Made Public This Morning

Chicago, Aug. 25—(AP)—Virtually three fourths of the estate of the late Victor F. Lawson, noted editor and owner of the Chicago Daily News was left to benevolent purposes. The newspaper and other property was left to the management of the Illinois Merchants Trust Company as trustee.

Specific bequests totaled $4,775.000
of which more than one half or $2,- 500,000 were for benevolence.

A specific bequest of $200,000 was left to his long time friend and co-worker in journalism, Melville E.
Stone of New York City, now coun-cellor and formerly general manager of The Associated Press.

John J. Mitchell, president of the Illinois Merchants Trust Company, who was named executor of the will and trustee of the estate, said that the Daily News would be managed under the trusteeship in accord with the tried policies and known ideals of Mr. Lawson.

Bequests to Religion

After the specific bequests, three fourths of the residuary estate was left in equal parts to the Chicago
Congregational Missionary & Extension Society which also received a specific bequest of $1,300,000; the Chicago Theological Seminary, which in addition was bequeathed $100,000 specifically, and the Young Men's Christian Association which was left a $100,000 specific bequest.

The remaining one-quarter of the residuary estate was bequeathed to the publisher's only brother, Iver N.
Lawson of San Diego, Calif., who also will receive a specific bequest of $200,000 and the income of a trust fund of $300,000. He was the chief individual beneficiary named in the will.

Other relatives and co-workers, including Mr. Stone, and employees of the Daily News were among the beneficiaries.

Mr. Lawson was a heavy stock holder in the Illinois Merchants Trust Company bank.

Tomorrow's program starts with a ball game between the Amboy and Walton teams at 10 o'clock. Ward
Miller of Dixon, former big leaguer, will umpire this and succeeding games, insuring capable officiating.

Every department has bigger, more and better exhibits than in many years, and patrons of the fair are insured something to interest them all day and every evening, for a great right fair is part of the program.

Block of Buildings in Montreal Fired for Fire

(Telegraph Special Service)

Montreal, Aug. 25—(AP)—An entire block of buildings in Montreal was laid waste last night by fire.

The blaze started at 11 o'clock last night and under a half gale spread rapidly. The buildings consumed consisted of 20 or more dwellings, a large apartment house and an ice plant. No estimate has been made of the damage. The casualties were comparatively few. Most of these reported consisted of several firemen being overcome by smoke.

Sixty-one families were rendered homeless. Water pressure was low and this gave firemen much concern.

Mrs. Joe Petersberger and daughter Miss Amy were passengers to Chicago this morning to remain for a few days visiting with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Shelby Cortright have returned from an extended stay in the west, visiting the national parks, spending most of the time in camp at Estes Park, visiting in Colorado and other large cities in the west. They motored there and back, carrying their tent and camp equipment with them. Both Mr. and Mrs. Cortright are much benefited by their summer of camping and recreation.

TIME TESTED

The building and loan plan had its beginnings ninety years ago.

Today's association, ours for instance, enjoys the benefits of many improvements and safe-guards that the early institutions did not possess.

There is a saying that "only the good endures." The growth and prosperity of building associations, all over the country, is an instance of this truth.

Every person who wants future independence—every person who has ambitions for a home—every person who would help the up-

building of this community

should be a member of a building and loan association.

LOOKIN' AHEAD—

(By Hal Cochran.)

It won't be so long now till summer is done, till nature a full course of beauty has run. The greens will be turning to browns and to red. And, what do you see, if you're lookin' ahead?

A blanket of snow that has turned the land white and made things seem brighter and softer at night. A pond that is frozen, where skaters may sway, and folks bundled up in a horse-driven sleigh.

A curling of smoke from a chimney nearby and a haze of a snowstorm over spreading the sky. A fireplace where logs slowly crackle and snap, and a youngster with ears tucked far under his cap.

A coal man who's walkin' along by his team and autos, half frozen and clouded by steam. A jamb in the traffic, a wind-beaten cop, and botties with cream freezin' over the top.

It won't be so long now till summer is done, till sly old Jack Frost starts to havin' his fun. Complainin' of heat is a story that's old. Cheer up, you will soon be complainin' of cold.

Annual Picnic Was Enjoyable Affair

The annual picnic of St. Patrick's Catholic church sponsored by the Dixons on Council Knights of Columbus, was held Sunday at Lowell park and was one of the most enjoyable picnics ever held by the Knights.

The day was ideal and brought nearly a thousand Knights and their families. The big attraction of the day was the Boys' Band from St. Vincent's Orphanage at Freeport, their music being much appreciated by everyone at the park.

Races were held with prizes. The Dixon K. C. and Sterling K. C. baseball teams played a game which was won by Sterling. The foot races, egg races, etc., were open to all. At the close of the festivities the K. C.'s entertained the Boys' Band with a motor boat ride, ice cream and an automobile ride back to Freeport, the youngsters having a great day. A most enjoyable picnic dinner was served the Knights furnishing the ice cream and coffee for the feast.

WISCONSIN ENTRIES ARE IN.

Entries are believed to be all in for the Wisconsin senatorial race, with LaFollette as the pole horse.

Four candidates will contest for the republican nomination: Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., State Senator Roy P. Wilcox of Eau Claire, former Gov. Francis E. McGovern of Milwaukee, and Arthur R. Barry of Milwaukee.

William G. Bruce is the nominee of the democratic convention.

John M. Work is the socialist candidate.

If any other entry appears it will be one to contest with Bruce for the democratic nomination on a wet platform. Bruce not being satisfactory to the beer and wine advocates.

Because of the fact that the republican ticket usually wins in Wisconsin, chief interest will be in the contest for that nomination. If there is no contest in the democratic party, the republican primary will be overrun by democrats and socialists of the type that makes a practice of that sort of thing. In a free-for-all of that kind the son of the former senator will have the advantage. The father drew from that class of votes, and the Wisconsin primary is so framed that they can overwhelm the republicans in affairs that should concern only republicans.

However, there are complications, the result of which will be known better when sentiment begins to crystallize. The complicating element is McGovern. He was governor of the state from 1911 to 1915 and as such must have much strength that was a part of his old state machine, persons obligated to him. During his campaigns for office and his service as chief executive has been supported by the element that was following LaFollette. But he was not a part of the LaFollette-Blaine senatorial plans, so he sought aid and comfort from the stalwart wing of the party. He went into the Oshkosh convention, which was held to eliminate all except one candidate, who should receive the united support of the faction against LaFollette.

McGovern did not develop much strength in that convention, and the nomination went to Wilcox. Thereupon McGovern refused to bind himself to the stalwarts and set out for himself, apparently to gather what he can from both factions. He is in position to make himself felt in such a campaign. The convention declared against the primary law. He has come out to fight for its retention. His "progressive" leanings may draw some of the old LaFollette support that was with him in his governorship and which may not desire to follow the Blaine-LaFollette program. To that may be added support of anti-LaFollette republicans who are opposed to Wilcox.

Barry is running only as a candidate of the wets in the republican primary.

BRYAN MEMORIAL UNIVERSITY.

It is proposed to establish a Bryan Memorial university at Dayton, Tenn., and so seriously has the proposal been taken that a pledge of $200,000 has been made as the beginning of the endowment.

It is highly appropriate that a memorial should be created for Mr. Bryan, but it is possible that the effort might be directed better in another direction.

Two things are to be considered in establishing an educational institution. One is that such an institution can not be established without an enormous, an almost prohibitive fund. The other is that even if funds are limitless, there are elements attached to a college or university that money can not buy.

For a small college $200,000 would be a handsome gift. Perhaps it would save the life of a struggling institution that has been doing good work for half a century, but is losing out in the race for millions required for universities that are in competition with those of the several states. Yet, the small college that has been in existence fifty years has something that the millions can not buy. It has tradition. It has students scattered around the world. It has the second and third generations for students.

Those things are part of the making of a college as certainly as are gifts of money. It is possible for friends and associates of Bryan to donate a million or two million dollars for a memorial for him and necessarily a great amount of sentiment would be included. But such sentiment is wasted on the freshman who will enter. His sentiment must come later. He must begin the creation of the traditions of the school.

It is true that a memorial is created to last indefinitely, and fifty years hence such an institution as is proposed would be rich in history, if it is successful. But it must be successful in competition with the state institutions with their endless resources.

It would be calamity to establish a memorial that is a failure.

In Springfield at one time there was a movement toward establishing an Abraham Lincoln memorial university. It was estimated that $2,000,000 would be required, and finally it was concluded that the undertaking was too great.

Magnus Johnson admits that he had the best time of his life in Washington and that he likes the chautauqua platform. We know a Scotchman who educated his son. To another farmer who was about to start his son in college he said: "You'll nee get any more gude of him on the far-rum." Probably that is the sentiment of the sons of Magnus, who now are managing the farm.

TOM SIMS SAYS

Well, in St. Louis a tailor petted his wife with an iron so the touchy woman wants a divorce.

One might say the St. Louis tailor's wife seeking divorce has a tailor made divorce suit.

In union suits there is strength, but divorce suits are caused by some weakness.

And some of these divorce suits being pressed should have been sent to the cleaner first.

Divorce suits are worse than bathing suits because they leave something for the imagination.

One might say the Moscow stocking shortage is caused by our seeing just about all of the stockings here.

And Moscow has a shoe shortage. They haven't any leather. You can get leather off of Moscow.

But since there are no stockings in Moscow mosquitoes will get so fat they will be easily slapped.

Iowa man tried to make his son work. So the boy shot him. Maybe he will claim he is a college boy.

A boy tells us he will be glad when college starts. Says he hasn't had a decent drink all summer.

Had a slight earthquake in Mexico. California doesn't know yet how those others crossed the border.

That's why the Mexican border is guarded. So tourists won't return with a bottle full of earthquake.

Rubber prices are still up. They are stretched. Some day one end is going to get loose.

OTTUMWA'S BLIND
PIANO TUNER SON
FRANKLIN WOMAN

A. J. Petrie Will Get Law Degree in June from U. of Iowa

An Ottumwa, Ia., paper recently had the following story concerning A. J. Petrie, blind piano-tuner, who is a son of Mrs. Amelia Petrie of Franklin Grove, and who is well known and has many friends in Lee county:

A. J. Petrie, who has for many years been a familiar figure on the streets of Ottumwa and who is well known over this section of the state as "the blind piano tuner," has just returned here, following completion of work in the summer school at Iowa City.

Mr. Petrie will next June receive his degree from the University of Iowa law school the attainment for which he has long been striving. He attended a blind school at Jacksonville, Ill., getting a grade and high school education. He later received his B. A. degree at Illinois college, Jacksonville.

Working Here Now

Since then Mr. Petrie has been tuning pianos in an effort to raise funds to further his education. He will work here for a while at this trade.

Not in the least sensitive of his affliction, he tells of the way he does things, modestly confessing, it seems, that it is nothing to be blind. "Any one with common sense knows that there are sidewalks on each side of a street," he said, "and there is seldom any obstruction on them. As a rule you would imagine there would be at least one step up or two. It's purely a matter of common sense."

His so-called "common sense" has given him the power to travel nearly anywhere. He recently returned from a business trip to Minneapolis, where he says he can easily find his way around by asking. He goes to Chicago, traveling over the city by himself.

Mr. Petrie has learned the method of writing and reading called the dot system, which consists of various combinations of dots, punched through a steel disk onto paper, making perforations. As he held the paper, which with its pin holes closely resembled the object of a child's play, he rubbed his hand over it and said it was a list of prospective pianos to tune. He also uses a typewriter "as well as a bum stenographer," he said.

Likes To Play Cards

Playing cards hold just as much enjoyment for him as to those who can see the hearts and spades. He uses the punch system to mark them and can play as well as those with the sharpest eyes. He has had ten years' piano instruction, which has been a great deal of value to him in his tuning work. One difficult feat he performs is track work in a gymnasium. He takes all sorts of exercises in the "gym," he stated.

"Well," he said, pulling out his watch and feeling the hands, which were very close to the moon now. "It's about time to eat, isn't it?"

True self-abnegation does not spend its time in judging its neighbor and in attempting to correct what it considers that neighbor's faults by criticism and condemnation. Self-abnegation is occupied in rebuking its own beliefs in evil and in relinquishing its own sense of a selfhood apart from divine Mind. It is constantly learning more of men as the likeness of His Mind,—as the expression of spiritual goodness, of divine perfection, of all that is true and pure.

PIRATES ALMOST CINCHED BANNER ON POLO GROUNDS

Took Four of Five in Crucial Series and Giants Look Bad

New York, Aug. 25—(AP)—The Pirates were generally regarded today at the next champions of the National League. They have left New York after taking four out of five games in a crucial series with the Giants.

Only 32 games remain to be played by Mc Grav's entry while the Cora-sians have 38 and a long stretch at home.

The final blow dealt New York yesterday by the Pirates, 8-2, not only left the Giants six games behind first place, but found their defenses almost wrecked. The inner works cracked in the fifth. An inside fly went for a sacrifice, and Cuylar stole home while Jackson held the ball. Three errors were made on easy chances.

As Pittsburgh retired, the Giants looked down the standing and saw Cincinnati coming along only two and one half games behind. The Reds lost an opportunity to gain more ground yesterday by waiting before the brilliant pitching of Graham at Boston, 3-2.

Senators, Mack's Lost.

Washington and Philadelphia, separated by only a single game at the top of the American standing, both were belted in the west yesterday.

The leading Senators lost to Detroit, 13-4. Three Washington box men were shelled with 16 hits by the Tigers.

Manager Eddie Collins, on crutches as the result of a strained ligament, directed the White Sox to a 3-1 victory over the Mack's who made only four hits of Blankenship.

Babe Ruth's third home run in as many days failed to rouse the Yanks who lost their fifth straight to Cleveland, 5-1.

Vangilder blanked the Boston Red Sox, 4-0, for the Browns, allowing only six hits.

The St. Louis Cardinals, smothering the Phillies under a blanket of 29 hits to win twice, 14-5 and 8-4, tightened their grip on fourth place in the National as the Robins split even with the Cubs. Chicago lost the opener 6-12 in spite of a shower of 17 hits, but with 15 bingles won the second 13-4.

Seen from Press Boxes in League Parks Yesterday

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Manager Bancroft was unable to play yesterday because of injuries received in a collision with Sammy Bohne of the Reds in practice Saturday, but sat on the bench and directed his team to victory. It may be several days before Bancroft will be able to play.

Barney Friberg, former Cub, who has been playing the Keystone sack for the Phillies took a whirl at pitching and showed the Cardinals he was Guy Bush yielded only six hits in the second game against Brooklyn and Chicago earned an even break on the twin bill. Bush struck out eight men.

A ninety-nine pound water melon was received by President Comiskey of the White Sox from A. G. Carter, publisher of the Fort Worth Star Telegram.

Umpire Brick Owens had a close call from being hit by a thrown bat yesterday. Bill Lamar of the Athletics tapped to Blankenship in the last inning and thus so peered the slugger that he threw his bat high in the air and in the direction of first base. Owens was at first base a few feet away from a Philadelphia coach. Both coach and Umpire retreated and Earl Sheely who was about to take Blankenship's peg to first, saw the bat and ducked out of danger. Lamar was called out and ordered off the field.

HELEN'S PLUCK RETAINS TITLE IN HARD GAMES

California Girl Wins American Crown for Her Third Year

Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 25—(AP)—The national women tennis championship trophy remains in the possession of 19-year old Helen Wills for another year after frustration of the most threatening English invasion in the history of the game.

The California girl triumphed over Kathleen McKane of England yesterday, 3-6, 6-0, 6-2. Fighting pluck in the face of adversity crowned Miss Wills queen of the American courts for the third consecutive year. Three times during this tournament she was extended to three sets. Joan Fry of England and Helen Goss of New York pushed her to the limit in preliminary round matches. But each time she turned impending defeat into triumphs.

In each of three matches her opponents were so exhausted after their initial victories that they fell easy victims to her powerful strokes in the final two sets.

After defeating Miss McKane, Miss Wills returned to the court an hour later to retain her title as doubles champion with Mary K. Browne of California.

They defeated Mrs. May Sutton

Over 500 farmers attended the plowing contest at Sublette last Friday, which was said to have been the biggest of its kind ever held in Lee county, and which was won by Hart-Parr, according to the judges: Martin Mueller, Frank Kellen and John H. Becker. Four makes of machines were entered: Walls Cub 15-27; John Deere 15-27; Hart Parr 12-24. Other makers were invited but did not enter machines, but the four which contested gave very good exhibitions, Hart Parr being first in time, second in fuel and third in time and third in fuel with its two entries: John Deere being first in fuel and fourth in time; and Walls Cub being second in time and fourth in fuel.

Each machine was required to plow seven inches deep, the Hart Parr 16-30 plowing three acres in 1 hour and 32 minutes and using six and one-fourth gallons of kerosene at a cost of 26 1/4 cents per gallon. Gives Self Up at Wife's Plea

MAY SEYMOUR
FOOTLOOSEby BEATRICE BURTON
SEQUEL TO "The FLAPPER WIFE" ONEA

THE STORY THUS FAR:

MAY SEYMOUR, whose husband killed himself because of her love affair with another man, returns home after a year's absence. She disposes of her inherited property, leaves the sale of her house in the hands of a wealthy widower, ULYSSES FORGAN, and with $3600 in her handbag, sets out to find and marry a man with money.

At Atlantic City she meets a divorcee, CARLOTTA FROLKING, and her friends, HERBERT WATERBURY and DAN SPRAGUE. Both men pay suits to May, to the great distress of Carotta who has been in love with Dan for years. When he proposes, May refuses him, having made up her mind that Waterbury is the millionaire husband she has been looking for.

Carotta asks May to spend the winter with her in her bungalow in the California hills. May accepts on condition that Carotta permit her to pay her share of the expenses.

As time goes on, May despairs or ever "landing" Waterbury, who makes love to her but doesn't propose marriage. Then JACK DARNLEY, a young college football player, appears on the scene, falls in love with May, and rouses the jealousy of Waterbury, who immediately proposes. May accepts him, and they plan to be married within a week.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

MAY'S breast swelled with a keen sense of victory as she said goodby to Waterbury in the lobby of the hotel. In the shadow of some tall palms near the door, he took both her hands in his, for her he was an escaped convict.

And Mollie Eaton, who sent him back, is going to wait until his six year term is over—and then they're going to resume their honeymoon.

Eaton, a fugitive from Wyoming, married Miss Mollie Luback of Seminole, Okla., under the name of Moore. Then, after the marriage, he told her he was an escaped convict.

"You're my girl now, aren't you?" he asked, and there was a deep note of tenderness in his voice.

May beamed up at him, without a word. To herself she was thinking: "Yes, and you're mine! You're my girl now, aren't you?"

"I'll make him give me a million-dollar husband, just like that!" And she snapped her fingers.

Presently she sat down before the glass to manicure the almond-shaped nails of her long, slender hands. She spread her fingers and looked at them. On the third finger of the left hand the black pearl gleamed dull.

"That's where I ought to be wearing Herby's engagement ring," she thought suddenly. "Oh, dear, why didn't I make him buy me one today when we were out on the Boardwalk? — We must have passed two or three jewelry stores! How stupid of me!"

And before he had time to object, May had left him with a wave of her hand and a smile that lingered in his memory.

An expression of extreme satisfaction appeared on his own face, as he twirled his cane and limped jauntily out of doors. An onlooker would have said that Herbert Waterbury was tremendously pleased over something.

"I'll make him give me a good, fat clothes allowance," she decided dreamily. "And we'll go to Egypt for our honeymoon."

The sharp ringing of the telephone brought her back from these thoughts of wedded bliss and the land of the Nile.

"Mr. Sprague calling," said the telephone girl, and May asked her to send him up.

She met Dan, standing in the center of the great rose-scented living room, and held out both her hands in welcome.

"How fascinating he is in his ugly way," she was thinking, as she smiled at him with slightly parted lips.

"Good Lord, how rich she must be to live like this!" Sprague was thinking, as he looked down at her. He had not glanced at the room apparently, but his sharp eyes had instantly registered the size and when he finds out that this party is splendor of it, and of the bedroom beyond. He knew that a suite of this sort was not to be had for a song at a Boardwalk hotel in Atlantic City.

"Dear lady, I came to talk business with you," he said, laughing in an exasperated sort of way. "And how can I talk business to you when you look the way you do? I want to kiss you."

"Oh, go on with you!" May said, the corners of her lips tilting up. "If you wanted to kiss me, you would!"

Then, as he came toward her, she put a little gilt chair between them. "No, no . . ."

Sprague laughed genially. "All right, if you won't let me make love to you, perhaps you'll let me make money for you," he said, taking the gilt chair from her. "Come downstairs and while we have some tea when we were out on the Boardwalk — We must have passed two or three jewelry stores! How stupid of me!"

May agreed and together they went to the dining room.

He cleared his throat and began. "Perhaps Waterbury's told you about my oil well out in California," he said. "They've sunk the shaft, and the superintendent tells me it's going to make us all rich . . . Waterbury and two or three other fellows who are in with me, on it. We will explain to you come along!"

HELPED THROUGH CHANGE OF LIFE

Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound during this Critical Time

Baltimore, Md.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to help me through the Change of Life and for a broken-down system. I had been complaining a long time and dragging along had tried other medicines which did not help me much. I read in the newspapers of the Vegetable Compound and after taking a bottle I felt better. I did not stop with one bottle, but took it through the whole critical time and am now practically a well woman. I have two daughters whose health was very bad before they married and I was worried about them. I got the Vegetable Compound for them and it helped them, and after they married it also helped them in bearing their babies. This is a great and good medicine for all complaints of women, and I recommend it to all."—Mrs. L. GINGRICH, 1375 N. Gilmore St., Baltimore, Maryland.

The Vegetable Compound is a dependable medicine for women of middle age. Let it relieve you of nervousness, that feeling of strain and those annoying hot flashes so common at this time.

Two of President's Marine Guard Asleep

Swampscott, Mass., Aug. 24—(AP)—Two marines of the special detail assigned to guard the summer White House were found asleep at their posts of duty this morning. Charges of neglect of duty have been preferred against them and Captain Andrews, the president's naval aide, has ordered an investigation.

Lieut. Wright, in charge of the detail, inspected guard posts early this morning and it is understood he reported that one marine had left his post and that another was asleep on duty.

A detail of 18 marines has kept a 24 hour watch on White Court this summer aiding the secret service in protecting the president.
